

Abstract

The Japanese Club at Northwest College is a diverse cultural group with over 25 active members from students, faculty, and the community. Led by a dedicated four-person board, the club focuses on promoting Japanese language, traditions, and cultural appreciation. The Japanese Club meets once a month at the Bloom-Wilson Intercultural House hosting events that introduce and educate members about Japanese culture and encourage cross-cultural exchange. Activities involve everyone, such as preparing and eating Japanese specialties, honoring Japanese festivals, watching anime, playing Japanese games, and language practice.

At the upcoming Student Showcase, the Japanese Club will showcase these activities and achievements through a visually appealing display and informative poster highlighting the year's events with photographs. The exhibit will include origami made during the holiday season and club members will present stories highlighting club events and gatherings.

The Japanese Club's proposal for the Student Academic Showcase demonstrates our mission and initiative to educate and raise awareness about Japanese culture and inspire others to embrace cultural diversity.
