

Livestock Judging Team

Over the past two years, we've built strong skills in livestock evaluation and clearly communicating our reasons sets. Judging has pushed us to think critically and make precise, well-supported decisions. Traveling across the U.S. for contests has exposed us to a variety of agricultural operations and allowed us to work closely with breeders, expanding both our skills and industry knowledge. Along the way, we've formed valuable connections nationwide. This year, both sophomore and freshman teams found success, with individuals and teams earning recognition. Beyond awards, we've gained lasting skills in discipline, communication, and public speaking. The experiences and relationships we have gained through livestock judging will leave a lasting impact on our futures.
