

Over the course of the semester, I have been doing research on whether there is a correlation between Native American diet and different health issues. For my presentation I will be showing the results of an interview I did with an Indigenous chef on Native American diet. Throughout the interview I asked questions about their diet and what foods they typically consume.